

HETCH-HETCHY WINS, 43 TO 25

Passed by Senate This Morning After All Night Debate.

MENACED FOR TIME BY DOUBLE RULINGS

Gives San Francisco Water Rights in Yosemite National Park.

[From The Tribune Bureau.]
Washington, Dec. 7 (Sunday).—The Hetch-Hetchy bill was passed to-night shortly before midnight, by a vote of 43 to 25. Amendments were voted down in haste.

The measure gives San Francisco water supply and power rights in the Hetch-Hetchy Valley of the Toulumne River, Yosemite National Park. It had previously passed the House in identical form, and goes at once to the President for signature.

Bitter feeling developed in the Senate when a parliamentary misunderstanding threatened to defeat the final vote upon the bill. Acting under a unanimous consent agreement to vote on the "calendar day of December 6," Senators became confused as to whether the vote would be prevented if the debate continued until midnight.

Vice-President Marshall held that the calendar would expire then, but refused to rule as to whether a vote could be completed if begun at that time. He had previously ruled that the calendar day ended at noon to-day. Several Senators prevented efforts to get a supplementary agreement for a vote at some specified time before midnight.

"I serve notice now," said Senator Myers, in charge of the bill, "that if this vote is defeated through any such means there never will be another unanimous consent agreement so long as I remain in the Senate."

The situation was relieved when Senators still to speak on the bill announced they would shorten their remarks and bring an early vote. Senator Pittman, who made the chief speech at the night session in support of the measure, withdrew in the midst of his address in order to smooth the way for a vote.

Senator Poinsett, of Washington, opposed the passage of the bill and said that other sources of supply were open to San Francisco. Senators Colt and Gallinger, in brief statements, also opposed it.

Senator Clark, of Wyoming, declared the bill should be amended so that it would simply give San Francisco the right to the water supply without conferring the other rights of ownership and privilege contained in the Raker bill.

MRS. LEWISOHN IN PAGEANT

Impersonates Cleopatra at Sanatorium Benefit at Astor.

Mrs. Adele Lewisoohn, wife of Philip Lewisoohn, of No. 62 Fifth avenue, impersonated Cleopatra in an eastern pageant at the Hotel Astor last night for the benefit of the Stony Wood Sanatorium. The pageant told the story of Antony's visit to Cleopatra, in which the Roman was entertained by a series of spectacles in the queen's garden. The most striking of these were poses in which the artists represented scenes from the Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam.

Among those who took part in the performance were Mrs. Irwin Untermyer, William Schiff, Mrs. Lee Kohn, Mrs. Walter Solomon, George Adler, Adele Strauss, Nelson Greenbut, Mrs. Hiram Bloomingdale, Dorothy Kohn, Margaret Strauss, Mrs. Arthur Sachs and Edith Wise.

Philippine Officials Resign.

Manila, Dec. 6.—C. M. Catterman, director of the Bureau of Posts, and Richard Campbell, judge of the Court of First Instance, resigned their positions to-day.

CAT EARLY FIRE ALARM

Cries Aid in Rescue of Family at Tarrytown.

The cries of a cat at 3:30 yesterday morning awakened Mrs. James Madden, of South Orchard street, and when she got up she saw the house of her neighbor, James Bushel, in flames. Mrs. Madden called for the police, who immediately sent in an alarm and then broke into the Bushel house and rescued Mr. and Mrs. Bushel and their seven children, who were almost overcome by smoke. They were carried out safely, and soon after the fire companies arrived the blaze was under control.

While William Cannon, a reporter, was passing by a hydrant the nozzle was blown off and 140 pounds pressure of water caught him in the back. It knocked him across the street and he crashed into a store window, but escaped serious injury.

WARNING TO AUTO DRIVERS

Unlighted Wooden Bridge Near Wynnefield a Menace.

"Many motorists who use the Thompson avenue-Queens Boulevard route for reaching points on Long Island are complaining about the wooden bridge over the Long Island Railroad at Wynnefield, a couple of miles from the Queensboro Bridge," says William C. Poertner, New York agent for the National and Waverley cars. "The complaint is that while the bridge is an improvement over the old grade crossing and is probably as well built as could be expected of a temporary structure, the fact that it is not lighted in any way at night is a dangerous feature."

"As one approaches the steep incline going in either direction it is most difficult to see the way ahead and avoid scraping mudguards and hubs against the low railing on each side. There are no lamps or lights of any description on the top or sides of the structure. "New York City traffic rules forbid the use of strong search lamps at night, and this rule is enforced by the police on that boulevard, so that the man burning ordinary side lamps endangers his own life and the lives of the occupants of the car, and risks wrecking his machine, no matter how carefully he may be driving at this point."

"NAVAL HOLIDAY" TO PASS

House Expected to Adopt the Resolution To-morrow.

[From The Tribune Bureau.]
Washington, Dec. 6.—An agreement was reached in the House to-day to vote next Monday on the Hensley resolution approving the suggestion of Winston Churchill, First Lord of the British Admiralty, that all nations take a holiday of one year in the construction of battleships. Despite strong opposition from Representatives Moore, Stevens, Hobson and others, the resolution probably will be adopted by a large majority.

Representative Hullings, of Pennsylvania, a brigadier general of volunteers in the war with Spain, told the House that the day of universal peace would come, but the adoption of the peace resolutions and disarmament would not bring it about.

"The day will come," said Mr. Hullings, "when nations will settle their disputes in a great international court, precisely as individuals are required to settle their differences in civil courts, but such times will come by natural evolution. "Resolutions will not bring peace. Peace societies will not stop war. The Hague Tribunal will not stop war. Solemn treaties have not prevented war. The halt in warship building will not stop war. They are helpful to show that we are advancing in enlightenment."

WIN IN SCHOOL CONTEST

Five Get Prizes for New York Historical Essays.

Glens Falls, N. Y., Dec. 6.—Fred B. Richards, secretary of the New York State Historical Association, announced to-day the five winners of the public school essay contest in the state. They are: First prize, $25, Ada Winifred Hill, Yonkers High School; second, $15, Marion McDowell, State Normal High School, Albany; third, $10, G. Randall Howe, Bataavia High School; fourth, $5, Clara Holder, State Normal High School, Albany; fifth, book, "Old New York Frontier," Edwin Glenolds, North Tonawanda High School.

The essays were on "The Naval History of Lake Ontario and Lake Erie in the War of 1812."

LA ROCHE TO AID CHILDREN

Will Present Their Plea for New Park in Harlem.

Louis A. La Roche, the newly appointed Park Commissioner, was a guest at a dinner in his honor last night at the Harmonie Club by the Harlem Board of Commerce. The dinner was private, only seventeen being present. Commissioner La Roche made a brief reply to an address by the chairman of the board, who presented a copy of a petition addressed to the Board of Estimate asking that the block bounded by Lenox and Seventh avenues, 129th and 140th streets be converted into a park.

The petition was signed by 15,000 children, as the result of the work of enterprising Harlemites, and was completed six weeks ago. Commissioner La Roche said he was in sympathy with the idea and would present the petition to the Board of Estimate.

COCAINE CRUSADE REACHES DRUGGISTS IN TENNESSEE

New York Trail Leads to Memphis, Where Arrests Are Expected Soon, and Authorities Hope to Get at Western Men Still Higher Up.

[By Telegraph to The Tribune.]

Memphis, Tenn., Dec. 6.—The arrest of one or more local druggists in connection with the sale of cocaine in New York City is expected as the result of the visit here of Floyd H. Wilmot, an assistant of District Attorney Whitman of New York.

Mr. Wilmot, who has had charge of the recent cocaine crusade in New York, which is being prosecuted under the law placed on the statute books through the efforts of The New York Tribune, discovered that James di Lorenzo, of New York, who is out on bail in that city under $5,000 bonds, and who is charged with being one of the principal distributors of the drug, sent more than $1,000 to local druggists here in the last six months for cocaine.

Di Lorenzo, whose mother, said to be the real head of the concern, is also under arrest in New York, sent this money through one telephone office from the store in West 61st street, in the "San Juan Hill" section of New York, which the di Lorenzos used as their headquarters.

Mr. Wilmot, who tried to keep his visit here a secret, visited the office of General Estes, and asked for information concerning two local druggists who were implicated by evidence obtained in New York, following confessions from some of the employees of di Lorenzo.

WRITES UPSIDE DOWN

Injury Gives Odd Twist to Boy's Mental Faculties.

Detroit, Dec. 6.—An injury received by Joseph W. Darling, of this city, when he was two and one-half years old, followed by four years of sickness, resulted in a peculiar twist of his mental faculties which causes him to read, write and draw upside down, according to instructors in the local school for cripples which the lad, who is now nine years old, attends.

The boy's teachers assert that they are unable to change the child's faculties to a normal condition. The injury affected the boy's spine and neck, and he is said to be permanently crippled.

O. K. COLLEGE MUCKRAKING

Editors Meet and Protest Too Strict Censorship.

Muckraking should have a place in the college magazine, and should not come in for rigorous censorship on the part of the academic authorities, in the opinion of the editors of nine college magazines in Eastern universities and colleges, who held their first annual conference at Columbia University yesterday. The question was brought up by Miss Freda Kirchwey, editor of "The Barnard Bear," and was seconded by John B. Putnam, editor of "The Cornell Era."

Miss Kirchwey is a daughter of Professor George W. Kirchwey, of the Columbia Law School, and her arguments were clearly and logically put. One difficulty that a college editor finds when he muckrakes, according to Miss Kirchwey, is faculty censorship, and from what she told the other delegates Barnard College maintains a mighty strict censorship over its students and its publications. This is true in all the women's colleges, the delegates learned after the Vassar, Wellesley and Mount Holyoke conferences had spoken.

Advertising in the college magazine is not a graft, the editors decided. It is legitimate business, from a student point of view, and would be from that of the advertiser, too, if he would only recognize the true worth of the college magazine as a medium.

The delegates were Miss Alana T. Seadler, Bryn Mawr; Miss Grace Hallcock, and Miss Marion Hoyle, Mount Holyoke; Miss Esther A. Tiffany, and Miss Anna E. Woodman, Radcliffe; Miss Lucille D. Hollinger, and Miss Elizabeth Tilling, Wellesley; Miss Corinne Reinheimer, Miss Florence Harris, Miss Beulah Corliss, Miss Freda Kirchwey, and Miss Louise H. Fox, Barnard; Miss Mary E. Nourse, Miss Mary Mallon, Miss Louise Seaman, Miss Dorothy Phillips and Miss Charlotte Greenbow, Vassar; Miss Helen Ross and Miss Edna Lessing, New York Normal College; John A. Lawrence, Williams; Alfred E. Van Court and Gilchrist B. Stockton, Princeton; John B. Putnam and A. P. Dippoldt, Cornell, and Harold Lamb, Allen Garman, Simon Barr, Alexander Weinstein and Miss Estelle de Young, Columbia.

LUDLOW VISITS CEMETERY

Removal of Brother's Ashes Draws Admiral to Churchyard.

[By Telegraph to The Tribune.]
Sayville, Long Island, Dec. 6.—Rear Admiral Nicoll Ludlow (retired), who has quarters at the University Club, in New York, visited the tomb of his kin in historic St. John's Cemetery, at Oakdale, Long Island, to-day.

The removal of the receptacle containing the ashes of his brother, Brigadier General William H. Ludlow, to Arlington Cemetery yesterday, at the instance of the general's widow, is supposed to have brought about Admiral Ludlow's visit to the old cemetery, where he has built a tomb for the reception of his own ashes.

N. Y. U. Gymnastic Dates.

The New York University gymnastic team will open its season to-night with an exhibition at the Newark Young Men's Christian Association gymnasium.

The squad numbers nearly thirty men and has been drilling for the last month under the eye of J. F. Bissinger, who last spring finished a close second to Paul Krimmel in the quadrangle American all-around gymnastic championships at Denver.

The schedule follows: December 3, exhibition at the Newark Young Men's Christian Association, Newark, N. J.; 19, exhibition at the Elizabeth Young Men's Christian Association, Elizabeth, N. J.; January 17, exhibition at the Bedford Young Men's Christian Association, Brooklyn; February 7, New York University vs. United States Naval Academy, at Annapolis; 14, New York University vs. Rutgers, at New Brunswick, N. J.; 27, New York University vs. Columbia University, at University Heights, New York; March 6, New York University vs. Yale, at University Heights, New York; March 13, New York University vs. University of Pennsylvania, at Philadelphia; 21, quadrangle intercollegiate gymnastic meet, New York University, Amherst, Columbia and Rutgers, at Bedford Young Men's Christian Association, Brooklyn, and 27, intercollegiate gymnastic meet, place not yet arranged.

NAB Y. M. C. A. SECRETARY

Detectives Accuse Secretary of Embezzling Funds.

[From The Tribune Bureau.]
Washington, Dec. 6.—Charles N. Chase, financial secretary of the Y. M. C. A., was arrested this afternoon by detectives on a charge of embezzling funds of the association. While the warrant charges that he appropriated $100, it is suspected that his peculations approximated $10,000. The discovery of the shortage in the association funds was made while Chase was in the hospital. He underwent a slight operation and in his absence from his office William K. Cooper, general secretary, had occasion to check up the financial condition of the association and it is alleged, found irregularities.

Chase is forty-five years old, and has always borne an excellent reputation. He has an automobile, but as he was known to have assisted in the sale of cars nothing was thought about the matter. Thus far he has attempted no detailed explanation of the alleged shortage in his accounts, but has informed the authorities that he is able to explain everything.

PAYS HONOR TO GAILLARD

House Passes Resolution of Regret for His Death.

Washington, Dec. 6.—As a recognition of the notable services of Lieutenant Colonel Gaillard in the construction of the Panama Canal, the House unanimously adopted to-day a resolution of regret at his death. The resolution was presented by Representative Austin, of Tennessee.

Baltimore, Dec. 6.—The funeral of Lieutenant Colonel David Du Bose Gaillard, division engineer of the Panama Canal, who died here yesterday, will be held in St. John's Church, Washington, next Monday, and the body will rest in Arlington Cemetery.

HUERTA TO SELL BARRACKS

Congress Asked to Authorize Disposal of Buildings.

[By Cable to The Tribune.]
Mexico City, Dec. 6.—Huerta's Finance Minister has sent to Congress a bill asking authorization to sell some of the government buildings in this city, such as barracks. A fair sum can be realized from such a transaction, but the explanation given is that many of the barracks, owing to location or construction, are not adapted to their purpose, and new ones on modern lines and in other localities are needed.

EGGS DROP, BUT NO SCRAMBLE FOR THEM

Housewives Lay It All to Boycott—Dealers Cackle in Denial.

Eggs went down three cents a dozen in Washington Market yesterday. The fact seems worthy the exclamation mark.

There are two explanations of the phenomenon: one given by Mrs. Julian Heath, president of the National Housewives' League and the other given by the marketmen.

"Hurrah," says Mrs. Heath, "our boycott worked." The boycott of eggs by the league has extended over several weeks now and boycotters were recently recruited from the wives of Cabinet officers in Washington. According to letters and telegrams received by Mrs. Heath, the boycott has been instrumental in reducing prices of eggs all over the country.

"Eggs are cheaper because there are more of them than there were a week ago," said Charles Drescher, who has a large egg stall in the market. "And there are more of them because the hens have started laying again, not because of any boycott. Of course, a great many people haven't been buying so many eggs lately, but that's because they couldn't afford them. That helped reduce the demand and the price, too, but it wasn't a boycott."

Asked whether the large importations of eggs from Austria had any effect on the lowering of prices, every man in the market gave the same reply: "We are not carrying them; they don't hold as much as our American eggs." Cheers for the patriotic hens.

But eggs aren't being given away yet. That notable drop of three cents a dozen still leaves the price for fresh eggs at 45 cents, and storage firsts at 35 cents.

Reisinger a Museum President.

Hugo Reisinger has been elected president of the Germanic Museum at Harvard University. He succeeds to the position of his father-in-law, the late Adolphus Busch, who succeeded Carl Schurz, first president of the museum.

WILSON'S NO BED OF ROSES, HE SAYS

Attorney General McReynolds Says President Works Hard.

WONDERS IF IT IS WORTH WHILE

Tennessee "Home Folk" Hear Some of the Trials of Federal Officeholders.

James C. McReynolds, United States Attorney General, told an audience of "home folks" from Tennessee last night some of the trials and tribulations of the President of the United States, and, incidentally, a few of the obstacles in the path of the head of the legal department. The occasion was the ninth annual dinner of the Tennessee Society of New York, held in the Waldorf-Astoria. Mr. McReynolds was a guest of honor and 300 Tennesseans paid him homage. A dance followed.

The head of the Washington legal department at the outset told his hearers that the "President's berth was not a bed of roses." He then proceeded to tell some of the reasons. He said:

"Few men know of the responsibilities of the man in public life and especially of the man who is the head of them all. No one who undertakes to enforce the law has an easy undertaking. He is a constant target for criticism. "The affairs of the United States have increased to such an extent that the task of managing them has become almost beyond the power of a single man. I wonder if the man who is looking after them now does not sometimes consider if it is all worth while. He is literally driven to serve the will of the people as a true servant ought to serve it, but his position is a difficult one in these troublous times."

The speaker outlined some of the tasks of President Wilson, including the currency question, the tariff and the Mexican problem. "With the multiplicity of worries which beset his daily life, some people express amazement because the President can't throw rays of sunshine on all sides at all times. Why, the very integrity of the man is questioned every hour of the day. His is a difficult position and one not to be envied by those who know the work he does."

"We should all congratulate ourselves that we have such a man as President Wilson at the helm at this time to guide the ship through the storms and heavy seas."

Mr. McReynolds told also of the duties devolving on his office at Washington.

"We give advice on all questions under the sun," he said, "and hundreds of millions of dollars are involved in these questions. We are now engaged in litigation affecting twenty thousand laws. All these cases must be reported to the President. One-fifth of all the lawsuits in the United States come finally to us for consideration, and all departments of the United States government come to us for interpretation of laws."

"And then there is the question of woman's suffrage—but our women are Tennessee women, and I think that will be all."

President John G. Lonsdale of the society presided.

POLICE SAVE MOTORMAN

Rescue Him from Enraged Mob After He Killed Boy.

William J. Mallon, a trolley motorman, was so terrified by the actions of a crowd that gathered about the body of George Claeg, fifteen years old, whom he ran down and killed in 2d street last night, that he left his car and ran. Enraged citizens caught him and were prevented from violence only by the timely arrival of the police reserves.

Mallon was still in a state of terror when taken to the West 17th street police station. He was locked up on a charge of homicide.

TIGERS LOOK FOR A WINNING SEVEN

Whirlwind Attack Will Be Built Up Around Captain Kuhn.

"Hobey" Baker and Kilner.

[By Telegraph to The Tribune.]

Princeton, N. J., Dec. 6.—Another successful hockey season is practically assured for Princeton by the return to the ice of Captain W. S. Kuhn and H. A. H. Baker, backed by three others of the seven which finished a close second to Harvard for the intercollegiate title last winter.

A start has already been made toward the attainment of their ambition to oust the Crimson from first place. Although severely hampered by the lack of ice near at hand for daily practice, and the consequent necessity of making the trip to New York for all but the most elementary work, interest in hockey as a sport at Princeton has reached a high pitch.

In order to cut down expenses and enable Captain Kuhn to take more of his men to New York for the practices, G. Hornbeck, the professional coach, has been given up as professional coach and all the coaching will be done by the captain, aided by "Hobey" Baker, C. N. Peacock, captain of the 1910 championship seven, and C. G. Ballin, a member of the same team, will help with a large part of the work during the rest of the season.

The attack this year will be built up, as it was last year, around Captain Kuhn, "Hobey" Baker and E. B. Kilner. With them will be T. Emmons and F. H. Winants, of last year's defence. Four good men are waiting to step into the place on the left wing made vacant by the graduation of R. E. Peterson, and it may be a toss-up among J. R. McColl, R. S. Cowan and G. A. and R. B. Peacock. The squad of men who are fighting it out for the vacancy, made by the graduation of R. C. Lee, who played at point last year, is at present led by A. Haskell, of last year's freshman team and formerly of Pomfret.

Perhaps the most closely contested position on the team will be that of goal keeper, for F. H. Winants, of last year's team, will be hard pressed by H. Carter, H. A. Laughlin, A. K. Schoepf and P. Moore, all of whom, except Moore, who was on the freshman team, were substitutes last year.

The schedule is not definitely completed yet, but the season will open in a game against St. Paul's School on December 15.

Bound for Savannah; Leaking.

Eastham, England, Dec. 6.—The British steamer Sandesand, bound from Runcorn, December 6, for Savannah, struck the sea wall here to-day. She strained a number of plates and is leaking.

WILSON OUT OF DOORS

President's Cold Better and He Takes a Long Walk.

[From The Tribune Bureau.]
Washington, Dec. 6.—His condition much improved, the President insisted on getting out doors to-day, after having been confined to his bed for two days with a severe cold in the head. He went to the Executive Offices this forenoon to sign two important documents, and remained there to transact some urgent business.

Mr. Wilson bundled up this afternoon and went for an automobile ride with Dr. Cary T. Grayson, U. S. N., his physician. Afterward he took a long walk, declaring that he needed the exercise. It is expected that he will be able to take up his duties actively next week.

It was stated that there was some doubt about the President taking any vacation during the holidays, as he had expected. He has hoped to be away two weeks, but does not feel now that he should leave Washington until his legislative programme is out of danger.

TO INVOKE PERJURY LAW

Government Thinks to Try to Stop Undervaluations.

Frank S. Carstarphen, Assistant United States District Attorney, in an effort to put an effective stop to undervaluation frauds, which, despite penalty suits and the imposition of fines, continue to grow larger from year to year, has decided to invoke the law against perjury.

Herman A. Salen, the New York representative of the Paris firm of Salen & Schroder, appeared yesterday in the Federal District Court and pleaded not guilty to an indictment charging perjury in connection with the filing of entry papers for imported laces at the Custom House. Judge Grubb fixed bail at $10,000.

He and Judge-Elect Nott Guests at Staff Dinner.

The members of the District Attorney's office gave a dinner at the Hotel Astor last night for Charles S. Whitman and Judge-elect Charles C. Nott, Jr., formerly one of Mr. Whitman's assistants. An ivory gavel, with a gold band, was given to Mr. Nott, and District Attorney Whitman received a photograph of himself on porcelain. Copies of the photograph were the dinner souvenirs. T. Channon Press, Assistant District Attorney, spoke on behalf of the diners in giving the photograph to their chief, and Assistant District Attorney Perkins presented the gavel to Mr. Nott.

Sixty persons attended the dinner. Among them were the following Assistant District Attorneys: C. F. Bostwick, J. K. Clark, J. A. Delehanty, W. H. L. Edwards, R. E. Manley, James O'Malley, C. A. Perkins, Robert C. Taylor and Isidor Wasservogel.

DINNER FOR W. C. FORBES

Philippine Society to Honor Former Governor General.

A complimentary dinner to W. Cameron Forbes, just returned from the Philippines, will be given here on Friday, December 13, by the Philippine Society and the Harmony Club of America. Former President William Howard Taft will preside and be one of the speakers. Mr. Forbes, U. S. Minister to the Philippines from 1901 to 1905, and Judge Almet F. Jenks also will speak.
